Diversity & Inclusion

Diversity is a CVM cornerstone value. Ours is an award-winning college, that both leads and collaborates in regards to climate, equity, and inclusion. A diverse and inclusive environment is essential for preparing veterinary leaders with an intentional, open, and global perspective. We affirm diversity both broadly and specifically, and our community aims to be representative of our ever-changing state and nation. In order to maintain and grow our commitment, we have developed a Diversity & Inclusion Strategic Plan.

In FY18, DVM student Jenna Ward was president of the national Broad Spectrum organization and the incoming DVM Class of 2022 was 23% underrepresented minorities.

The CVM offers one-year internship programs to newly graduated veterinarians and three- or four-year residency programs in several clinical disciplines for veterinarians seeking advanced training and board certification. Residents have generally already completed an internship. Interns and Residents are exposed to numerous specialties and work side-by-side with experts in their fields. Residents may apply to one of several different areas of specialty. Interns in four areas (internal medicine, small animal, large animal, and zoological medicine) rotate through different specialties and spend about a fourth of their time on the emergency service. They also have some elective time to spend in an area of interest within the Veterinary Medical Teaching Hospital (VMTH).
